

Malabo Policy Learning Event (MAPLE)

November 22 / 23, 2021

Concept Note

Background:

The Malabo Declaration signed by African Governments in 2014 represented a re-commitment to the CAADP principles and goals adopted earlier in 2003 with the Maputo Declaration. Malabo went further by identifying specific goals and targets to be achieved within a period of ten years. The targets include ending hunger, tripling intra-African trade in agricultural goods and services, enhancing resilience of livelihoods and production systems, and ensuring that agriculture contributes significantly to poverty reduction.

In particular, the Malabo Declaration introduced a specific commitment on Mutual Accountability to Actions and Results which calls on AU Members State to: (i) conduct a Biennial Agricultural Review Process that involves tracking, monitoring and reporting on implementation progress; (ii) foster alignment, harmonization and coordination among multi-sectorial efforts and multi- institutional platforms for peer review, mutual learning and mutual accountability; and (iii) strengthen national and regional institutional capacities for knowledge and data generation, and management that support evidence-based planning, implementation, monitoring and Evaluation.

In 2021, the African Union (AU), Regional Economic Communities (RECs) and Member States, in collaboration with partners have collected data for the third Biennial Review under the Malabo Declaration. This report will be placed before the heads of state in February 2020, for possible endorsement.

The Malabo Policy Learning Event (MAPLE)

The Malabo Policy Learning Event (MAPLE) is an annual policy dialogue convened by the Africa Union and its partners designed to bring together technical networks, country-level policy practitioners and leaders to discuss important agricultural policy topics, share learning and generate actions that can drive the Malabo Agenda.

The MAPLE 2021 is set to take place just before the 17th CAADP Partnership Platform. This year's event will be held a few months before the adoption of the third Biennial Review report by the AU Summit. The MAPLE will also be taking place against the backdrop of year-long dialogue processes in the lead up to the Food Systems Summit (September 2021). Furthermore, the MAPLE is being organized just as the Africa Union and Regional Economic Communities are reflecting on and finalizing a new CAADP business plan to guide implementation during the rest of the Malabo Declaration period (2022-2025)

One of the critical topics that has emerged in the course of all these processes is how to make policy processes and outcomes more inclusive and resilient. Furthermore, there has been increasing desire to shift focus from planning, dialogue and consensus building to implementation. It is against this backdrop that the theme of the MAPLE 2021 will be "Lessons for implementing Inclusive and Resilient Food Systems Policies"

This theme is aligned to the 17th CAADP Partnership Platform theme and aims to support the continuity of conversations on the Five Action Tracks of the United Nations Food Systems Summit (UNFSS) 2021 dialogues at sub-national, national, regional, continental, and global levels.

High-level Objectives of the MAPLE

- I. To share lessons and experiences on the review, design, and implementation of Malabo-compliant National Agricultural Investment Plans (NAIPS).
- 2. To highlight how inclusion and resilience have and can been integrated in Food Security programming in the context of Malabo implementation.
- 3. To review and learn from different policy implementation approaches and tools
- 4. To identify key actions that if implemented at National, Regional and Continental levels, will accelerate the implementation of the CAADP agenda

Design elements

Design and preparations will follow modalities and arrangements that ultimately support implementation at country level. For example, ahead of the event, virtual participation for pre-work will allow inclusion of more people from a practical/logistical perspective.

The two-day MAPLE workshop will see a deliberate effort to group countries with similar technical policy priorities to support cross-country learning & experience sharing. In addition, interactive components will be integrated in the form of breakout sessions, and other virtual tools built in to enable participants engage with keynote speakers and with each other in real-time and asynchronously.

Regional Economic Blocs (RECs) are leading in the coordination of in-country meetings and in summarizing findings for regional reports as local and country level facilitators support country team preparations and follow up post-MAPLE 2021.
